A Word from the Publisher...

JUST AS AN AMBASSADOR is a representative from one government to another, the Ambassador World Atlas may be considered a representative from all countries of the world to the reader, bringing knowledge of the world's lands and peoples.

To bring you this knowledge, the staff of C. S. Hammond & Company has selected the essentials from the vast amount of geographical data and correlated them in the most comprehensive, detailed atlas possible. To make the best use of this volume, it is suggested that the reader refer to "How to Use This Atlas" on the following page.

Plans for the Ambassador World Atlas called for a very detailed collection of topical and regional maps of all sections of the world, accompanied by a complete index listing all places shown on the maps. On two occasions during the preparation of the atlas it was found necessary to increase the number of pages. As work progressed we discovered extra material that would broaden the scope of the atlas. The additional pages allowed us to include this material without lowering the quality of detail and coverage.

Included in this graphic story of today's world are maps dealing with the geographical aspects of the major physical and social sciences — astronomy, topography, climatology, demography, linguistics, political science, etc. To make the index more interesting and useful, descriptive gazetteer entries are included for larger cities of the world. As an added feature, street maps are included of many of these cities because of their importance as business and cultural centers.

This company is entirely occupied in the production of geographical products and the nucleus of the organization is naturally its highly trained cartographic staff. To produce this volume, required three years' research and compilation by the staff plus the assistance of countless Government Agencies, Professional Societies and individual consultants. All cannot be listed here, but we do wish to specifically acknowledge the following:

—The American Geographical Society for the use of the society's splendid geographical library and map-room resources.

—Columbia University Press for the use of its voluminous statistical files.

—The United States Bureau of the Census for providing the results of the decennial census with dispatch.

—The cartographic research branches of various Federal mapping agencies for exchanging information on new techniques in map drafting and reproduction.

—The regional and district offices of the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation and the Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army for keeping us informed as to the many new reservoirs and dams of the nation's water control projects.

—Official mapping agencies, statistical offices and geographical societies of the free nations of the world for bringing to our attention new data on the constantly changing globe. A few of these scattered sources were selected at random and listed below as examples:

BELGIAN CONGO—Cartographic Service of the Ministry of Colonies.
BOLIVIA—Dirección General de Estadística.
CANADA—Department of Mines and Technical Surveys.
CHILE—Instituto Geográfico Militar.
COLOMBIA—Instituto Geográfico de Colombia.
INDIA—Survey of India.
INDONESIA—Information Office of the Republic of Indonesia.
PAKISTAN—Office of the Census Commissioner.
THAILAND—Central Statistical Office.
TURKEY—General Directorate of the Geodetic Survey; Central Statistical Office.
UNITED KINGDOM—British Information Services.
VENEZUELA—Ministerio de Fomento, Dirección General de Estadística.
WESTERN GERMANY—Statistisches Bundesamt.

—The municipal governments and chambers of commerce of over 80 cities whose courtesy in providing information made possible the city street maps contained in this atlas.

We are grateful to those who assisted in this work and know they share our pride in producing the Ambassador World Atlas, a valuable addition to anyone's library.

HOW TO USE THIS ATLAS

THE FOLLOWING NOTES have been added to aid the reader in making the best use of this atlas. Though the reader may be familiar with the use of maps, the publisher believes that a quick review of the material below will add to his enjoyment of this reference work.

For quickly locating any city, town, village, river, lake or any other topographic feature, consult the WORLD INDEX AND GAZETTEER, pages 161 to 404. The name of the feature desired will be found in its proper alphabetic sequence with its key reference and map plate number. A complete description of the method of indexing appears on page 162.

A word here as to the choice of place names on the maps: For major geographical divisions, the conventional Anglicized spelling is used, that is "Spain" instead of "España." However, the local official spelling is employed for foreign towns and topographical features, i.e., "München" instead of "Munich." Such names are frequently followed by the conventional or former name in parentheses. The index is cross-referenced for all common forms of such names as an aid to the user.

As an additional aid, a GLOSSARY OF GEOGRAPHICAL TERMS has been included on page 416.

If the reader is consulting the index to find the location of one of the larger cities of the world or of the United States, he will notice a page reference in parentheses. This refers to the map of the city. Use of the detailed street map can be extremely rewarding. For 2,650 cities of the world, brief paragraphs describing their economic life, tourist highlights and history have been included. All United States and Canadian cities with a population of 10,000 or more have been treated in this way.

To locate the map of any country, state, colonial possession or region, use the alphabetical GAZETTEER OF COUNTRIES AND LISTS OF MAPS. The arrangement and sequence of the maps, pages 10 to 160, is quite simple. Beginning with the World and Polar Region maps, the first series of continental maps covers Europe, pages 26 to 45; followed by Asia, 46 to 62; Africa, 63 to 68; Australia and the Pacific Ocean 69 to 74; South America, 75 to 87; North America, general, 88 to 96; Canada, 97 to 105; the United States, 106 to 160. Under these general divisions it will be noted that the states, countries, or other divisions generally follow geographical sequence—this plan having been adopted to facilitate reference to adjacent divisions. The name of the general division appears at the foot of each page to aid the reader in thumbing through the map section without referring to page numbers.

The atlas may be used to increase one's understanding of mankind and contemporary problems as they relate to the earth and its surface phenomena. Distribution maps relating to the worldwide aspects of climate, vegetation, relief, population, etc., will be found in the series of maps on pages 10 to 23. More detailed continental-scale maps on these topics appear at the beginning of each section devoted to a general division of the world, i.e., Europe, Africa, United States, etc.

Flat maps do not always show global realities truthfully but the global maps on pages 16 and 17 picture the true relationships between the major land masses of the earth. In like manner, the Polar Projection map of the World on page 11 helps one to visualize the close unity of the major land masses—a timely concept not easily visualized on the ordinary world map. The most remarkable of all spatial relationships—that of the elements of the solar system to one another — is shown on the Solar System diagram on page 10.

The general reference maps of the volume, i.e., the political maps of France, Germany, the States, etc., are worth study on the part of the reader in order that he may grasp the geographical principles that have molded the social and economic conditions of the world's political units. For example, a study of the configuration and terrain of the Korean peninsula, as shown on page 54, will reveal relationships between the landscape and the momentous events enacted thereupon in recent history.

To find the population figure, where available, for any city, town, village or political unit consult the WORLD INDEX AND GAZETTEER, pages 161 to 404. When referring to the index for the map location of an urban place it is quite often of value to notice the population figure listed for the entry. A broader picture of the social and economic conditions of the place under question is to be obtained in this way. The population entries also should be of value to businessmen in comparing one community against another for such diverse purposes as sales analysis, determining plant locations, mapping out sales territories and other special uses.

For statistics of area and population and the capital of each country see the GAZETTEER OF COUNTRIES AND LIST OF MAPS, pages 6 to 9. Though population figures for countries and other political areas will also be found in the World Index, this section provides a conveniently arranged statistical comparison in four pages. Area figures are included in tabular form as well.

For a description of the governments, monetary units, languages, religions and major products of the world's nations turn to the TABLES OF SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC DATA, pages 405 to 415. The tabular arrangement used here permits the reader to obtain the essential facts about an area in the shortest possible time.

For the reader whose needs call for large-scale maps beyond the scope of an atlas, the following detailed maps and charts are highly recommended. Maps of these series may be secured through the publishers, since C. S. Hammond and Company is a recognized agent for government produced maps and charts.

Topographic Maps of the United States Geological Survey—Standard topographic maps are usually published in quadrangle format and cover 7½ or 15 minutes of longitude and latitude. About 50% of the United States has been mapped in this fashion. The shape and elevation of the land is indicated by means of contours; the works of man (roads, railroads, trails, single buildings) are shown in great detail. Index maps of each state, showing areas covered by topographic maps are obtainable.

Nautical Charts of the U. S. Navy Hydrographic Office and U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey — The scales of nautical charts vary widely from the smallest scale ocean charts to the largest scale harbor charts. They show the depth of water by numerous plotted soundings, shore lines of adjacent lands, topographic features which may serve as landmarks and aids to navigation. Coast and Geodetic Survey charts cover the coasts of the United States and its possessions while Hydrographic Office charts deal with foreign waters.

Topographic Maps and Nautical Charts of the Canadian Department of Mines and Technical Surveys, Surveys and Mapping Branch—Canadian topographic maps are issued in varying scales and formats. However, a detailed series scaled at 1:50,000 and 1:63,360 covers the more densely populated portions of the nation. Contours show the shape and elevation of the land; man-made features are shown clearly.

The nautical charts of the Canadian Hydrographic Service cover the coastal and inland navigable waters of Canada.

Topographic maps and nautical charts of other countries are too numerous to describe here. However, the map-producing agencies listed below are notable. Additional maps or charts of other areas of the world will be recommended upon written request.

UNITED KINGDOM: Ordnance Survey; Geographical Section, General Staff.

FRANCE: Institut Géographique National.

ITALY: Instituto Geografico Militare

The Carte International du Monde is a medium-scale series at 1:1,000,000. Each sheet covers 4° of latitude and 6° of longitude and is issued by the government of the area concerned. In addition to showing cities, railroads, roads and boundaries, contour lines indicating the shape of the land surface and the ocean floor are carried. Gradations of color indicate the land heights and ocean depths. A large part of the globe has been mapped in this series. A provisional edition covering Latin America and the West Indies has been issued by the American Geographical Society under the title Map of Hispanic America.

The publishers have endeavored to make this work the most comprehensive and useful atlas available. Any constructive suggestions from the reader will be welcomed.

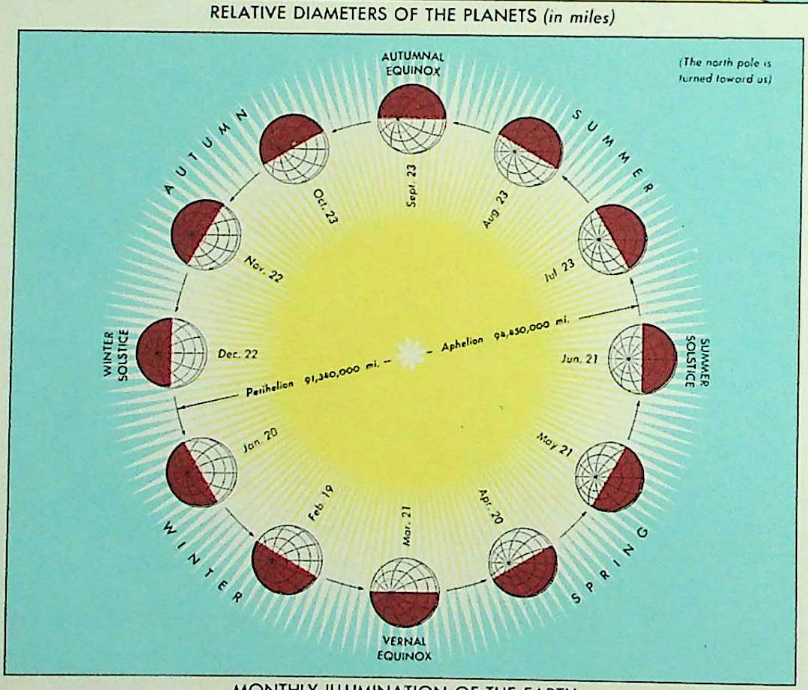
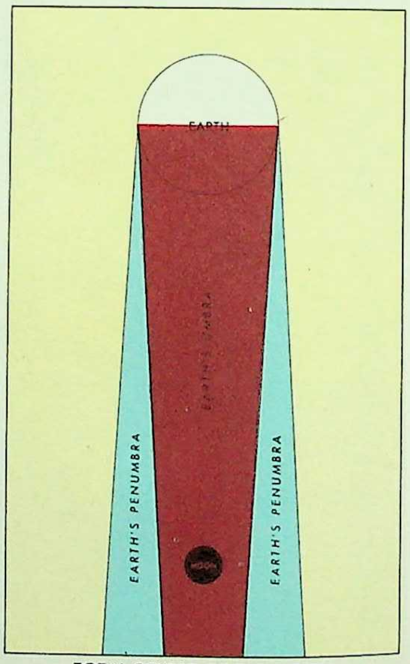
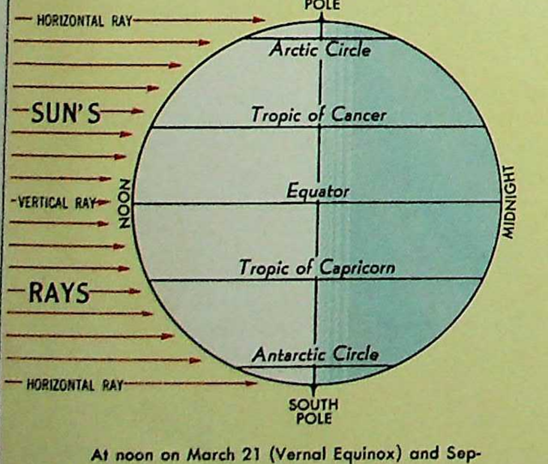
TOTAL ECLIPSE OF THE SUN



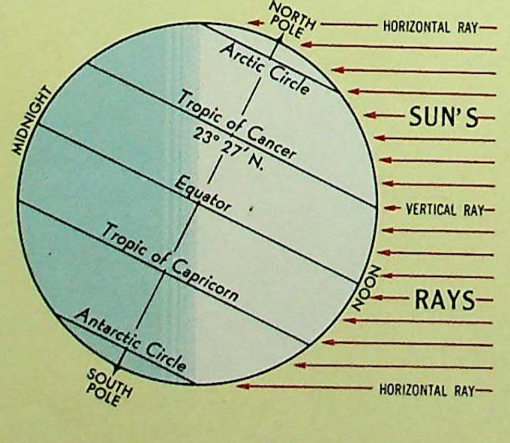
MONTHLY ILLUMINATION OF THE EARTH



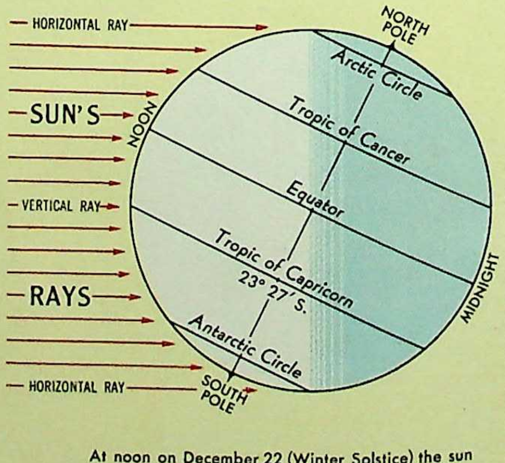
TOTAL ECLIPSE OF THE MOON



At noon on March 21 (Vernal Equinox) and September 23 (Autumnal Equinox) the sun appears vertically overhead at the equator. The sun shines on the earth from the North Pole to the South Pole. Day and night are exactly equal at all places on earth.



At noon on June 21 (Summer Solstice) the sun appears vertically overhead at the Tropic of Cancer (23° 27′ N.). The area north of the Arctic Circle has twenty-four hours of sunshine while the area south of the Antarctic Circle has twenty-four hours of darkness. The year's longest day and shortest night occur north of the Equator while the shortest day and longest night take place south of the Equator. At the Equator day and night are of equal length.



At noon on December 22 (Winter Solstice) the sun appears vertically overhead at the Tropic of Capricorn (23° 27′ S.). The area south of the Antarctic Circle has twenty-four hours of sunshine while the area north of the Arctic Circle has twenty-four hours of darkness. The year's longest day and shortest night occur south of the Equator while the shortest day and longest night take place north of the Equator. At the Equator day and night are of equal length.

This map has been prepared with the North Pole as the mathematical center. From it, distances to any part of the world may be measured. On Mercator's map of the world, the polar regions are so scattered that their relatively small area and availability for flight routes are disregarded. Today, with airplanes following great circle courses, often within the Arctic Circle, polar projection maps are indispensable to the people of this air-minded age.

STANDARD TIME ZONES

Each time zone is designated by a number which represents the hours, plus or minus, by which the standard time of the zone differs from the Greenwich Mean Time Zone. One hour of time is equal to 15° of longitude.

It should be noted that the time zone system shown on this map is applied, in a strict sense, only in oceanic regions. On land or on groups of islands the system is applied with certain local deviations, which are rendered necessary by frontiers, convenience of an entire island group to maintain the same zone time, etc.

WORLD INDEX
AND GAZETTEER OF CITIES

Introduction

THIS WORLD INDEX AND GAZETTEER of over 100,000 entries combines in one alphabetical list an Index of all cities and towns, political divisions and physical features which appear on the detailed reference maps in this collection; a Gazetteer of the principal world cities; and a Glossary of foreign terms.

Each index entry is given with the political division to which it belongs, a population figure, where applicable, from the latest available census or official estimate, and an index reference and plate number. In the case of political subdivisions and physical features a description has been given in parenthesis, such as (province), (river), (bay), etc. Place names in the United States, Canada, Australia and the Union of South Africa are designated by their state or province name only because such major internal divisions within the English speaking world are well known to all. All other entries are designated by the country name.

The 2,650 Gazetteer entries are the result of the combined efforts of an expert research staff. The publishers believe that this descriptive Gazetteer material should be an integral part of an atlas. In the past detailed information on the economic life, tourist highlights and the past history of the cities of the world has been available to the general public only in many-volume encyclopedias, or in expensive and cumbersome gazetteers. It is therefore quite a new departure in atlas publishing to include this information in an atlas of one volume.

Only the most recent and authoritative foreign and domestic data were consulted in the compilation of these Gazetteer entries. Entries for foreign areas include all places of sizeable population and many smaller communities of historic, economic, political or tourist interest. In the United States and Canada, all urban communities of over 10,000 population are described in the gazetteer.

To round out the usefulness of the Index and Gazetteer about 80 maps of the business centers of the world's leading cities have been included. These will be of interest to the tourist and business man alike. On these maps are shown hotels, theatres, stores, public and other important buildings, and highway, bus and railroad routes to and from the city.

As a special feature the translation of foreign geographical terms have been incorporated directly into the body of the index to save the reader the inconvenience of consulting a separate Glossary. For example: Rio will be found in the index with its English translation (river). All physical features are listed under their proper names and not according to their generic terms; that is to say, Rio Negro will be found under Negro and not under Rio Negro. However, for those who prefer to consult a glossary for comparative purposes, there is one on page 416.

HOW TO USE THIS INDEX

Index Reference and Plate Number: Each entry gives the index reference and the plate number on which the name is found. The name is found within the square formed by the two lines of latitude and the two lines of longitude which enclose the co-ordinates—i.e. the marginal letters and numbers. In the case of maps consisting entirely of insets, the name is found near the intersection point of the imaginary lines connecting the co-ordinates at right angles. See diagram below for illustration of these systems of indexing.

Where space on the map has not permitted giving the complete form of a name, the complete form is shown in the index. Where a place is known by more than one name or by various spellings of the same name, the different forms have been included in most cases in the index. All entries are indexed to the map or inset having the largest scale. This is done to give the best possible picture of a place in relation to its surrounding communities and to make the index more complete by not using the extra lines required to give more than one index reference and plate number for any one entry. For instance, Birmingham, England appears at S3 13; D3 26; E5 32; E4 30; and G3 30. However, the best coverage is at G3 30 in the inset and the reader is directed there. Had we indexed all locations, the reader would have to search for the best coverage and the entry would have consumed several extra lines in the index at the expense of other entries. Of course, the places may be located on other maps by looking in the same relative location.

Alphabetic Order: In the belief that a geographic index should primarily aid the reader in locating names quickly and accurately, we have employed the system of indexing followed in all government publications and telephone directories. All indexes sorted by mechanical means, such as the I.B.M. method, employ this system. Therefore, in alphabetizing, all those compound names with a common first part are grouped together, even though the first letter of the second part of the name may succeed the corresponding letter in a simple name. The three examples shown below are offered to illustrate this system in comparison with the less convenient alternate system of indexing.

INDEXING SYSTEM USED IN THIS ATLAS

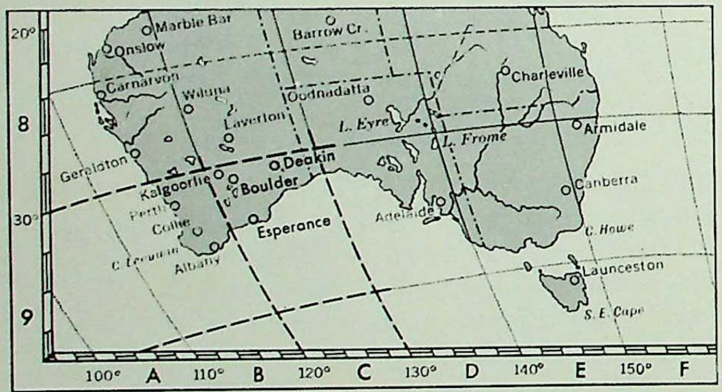
San Cristobal	La Ceiba	Bac Kan
San Francisco	La Spezia	Bac Lieu
San Jose	Labe	Bac Ninh
Sanchez	Lachlan	Bacabal
Sandakan		Backang

ALTERNATE INDEXING SYSTEM

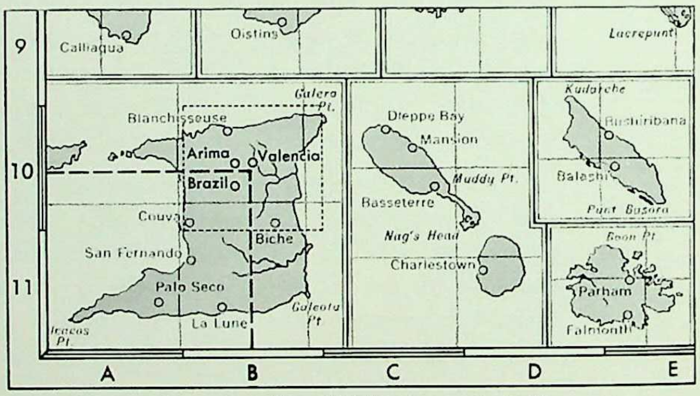
Sanchez	Labe	Bacabal
San Cristobal	La Ceiba	Bac Kan
Sandakan	Lachlan	Backang
San Francisco	La Spezia	Bac Lieu
San Jose		Bac Ninh

An asterisk (*) preceding the population figure indicates that the population is for a whole township, in the case of New England entries; or that it includes the suburbs in the case of larger foreign cities.

A dagger (†) preceding the index reference indicates that there was not enough room on the map to name the place but the approximate location is given to show where it would be.



Boulder, Deakin and Esperance are in C 9



Arima, Brazil and Valencia are in B 10

Athens (Athēnai), (cap.), Greece, 487,045 F7 44
Athens, Greece. Capital of Attica and of Greece, one of great historical cities of the world. Ancient city, ruled first by Ionian kings. Acropolis founded as fort, but became religious, social, political heart of city. Underwent series of political changes; ruled by tyrants and under newly-developed democratic system. Golden age of city in 5th century B. C., Hellenistic culture in all fields being paramount. Macedonia and Roman conquest followed, some dominance remaining until seizure by Goths in 395 A. D. Controlled by Byzantines and Turks, becoming capital of independent Greece in 1834, it was rebuilt then as a modern town. Several universities, many museums and archaeological sites. Tourist trade chief source of income. Rail and air center. Port at nearby Piraeus. Textiles, leather and metal goods, chemicals, tobacco, wines, printing and publishing.

Houston, Texas. Chief industrial center of the South and one of the major ports of the U. S. Port 50 miles inland at end of man-made Houston Ship Channel. Ships huge quantities of oil and refinery products, cotton, chemicals, sulphur, rice and grain. Noted also as important wholesaling and retail center. City is a leading production center of U. S. for chemicals, oil refining, and oil field machinery. Other industries and products are: steel, metal products, synthetic rubber, cottonseed oil, rice processing, textile bags, paint, food products, cement, aluminum, paper, shipbuilding, cans, meat packing, lumber products and clothing. Nearby are San Jacinto Ordnance Depot and Ellington Air Force Base. Of interest historically is the nearby San Jacinto Battlefield. Founded 1836, it served as capital of the Texas Republic until 1839. Developed as railroad center in 19th century. Great period of growth began after completion of ship channel in 1915. Rice Institute. University of Houston, Texas State University for Negroes.

Los Angeles, Cal. Metropolis of Pacific Coast states. Major industrial, commercial and tourist center. Motion picture capital of the world. Chief television and radio center of U.S. (with New York). Major seaport, aviation manufacturing and oil producing and refining center. Important center for automobile assembling, canned goods, tire, clothing, ceramics, furniture, photographic equipment and oil well equipment, soap, paint, paper products, glass, metal products, machinery, electrical and electronic equipment. City has become tourist mecca because of its Mediterranean-type climate, the mountain, desert and seashore scenery in the vicinity and because of the lure of the motion picture studios. Points of interest are Olvera Street (Mexican atmosphere), "China City", Wilshire Blvd. shops, Hollywood Bowl and the La Brea tar pits. City was founded in 1781 by Spanish as "Nuestra Señora la Reina de los Angeles de Porciúncula". Fell to U. S. during Mexican War. First boom occurred in latter 19th century with coming of railroads and real estate speculation. In 1910's and 1920's growth was tremendously accelerated by oil boom and opening of movie studios. During this time expanded areally in all directions making it the largest city in area in U.S. Aircraft boom and post World War II industrial growth accelerated population growth during 1940's and 1950's. University of California at Los Angeles (U. C. L. A.). University of Southern California. Loyola University. Chapman, George Pepperdine, Occidental, Immaculate Heart and Mount St. Mary's Colleges.

Natchez, Miss. River port; tourist and industrial center. Considered best example of ante-bellum Southern city in U.S. Beautiful homes are opened to public during annual spring pilgrimage. Has large tire plant. Lumber products, paper board, rayon pulp, work clothes, wall board, meat packing. Founded as French fort in 1716. In early 19th century, became major Southern center as river port and terminus of Natchez Trace. "Natchey-Under-the-Hill" section was notorious river boatmen's hangout. Declined after Civil War. Revival established in 20th century with tourist trade and coming of industrial plants.

New Orleans, La. Major world port and commercial - financial center of the Southern states. Mississippi-Missouri-Ohio Waterways, Gulf Intracoastal Waterway and railroad net all converge on city from interior of continent. Large exports of cotton, lumber, grain, oil, etc. Imports bananas, coffee, sugar, tropical products, bauxite, oil. Major cotton and lumber market. Industrial alcohol, sugar refining, shipbuilding, aluminum, clothing, lumber products, furniture, cotton textiles, cordage, roofing materials, rice milling, cottonseed oil. City is noted for its atmosphere and tourist sights. Its cooking is renowned and it is famous as the birthplace of jazz (1900-20; Manuel Perez, "Jellyroll" Morton, Louis Armstrong). The charm of New Orleans is best represented by the French Quarter or "Vieux Carré" where the Absinthe House, the St. Louis Cathedral and the Cabildo are located. The annual Mardi Gras festival is world-renowned. Founded 1718 by Sieur de Bienville. On becoming the capital of French Louisiana in 1722, city became center of French Creole culture. Transferred to Spain in 1763, city finally passed to U. S. in 1803. City was scene of Jackson's victory at Battle of New Orleans in 1815. Its position as terminus of the great Mississippi River transport system made it 3rd largest city in U.S. in 1850. Fell to Union forces under Farragut and Butler in 1862. City revived after Civil War and in 20th century had regained much of the export trade of the vast Mississippi Valley region. Tulane, Loyola, Dillard and Xavier Universities, Dominican College.

New York, N. Y. Largest city in the world. Chief U. S. port; financial commercial and cultural capital of U. S. City is leading industrial center of U. S. (light manufacturing). Clothing. (leads U.S.), furs, printing, leather, shipbuilding, millinery, jewelry, food products, machinery, precision instruments, electrical equipment, metal products. Harbor, one of world's finest with hundreds of miles of shoreline, is basis of city's economy. New York's location, as a world transportation hub, has attracted many corporation headquarters offices, resulting, in turn, in its spectacular office building sky scrapers. As cultural capital of U. S. City possesses many theaters, art galleries, museums, opera house, symphony hall and a cosmopolitan intelligentsia. As communications hub, city is leading publishing, radio and television center. Outstanding among New York's many tourist attractions are—Empire State Building (world's highest), Radio City, Statue of Liberty, Central Park, retail shopping centers, U. N. Headquarters, Greenwich Village, bohemian district, Harlem Negro section, notable bridges. As chief port of entry for immigrants during 19th and 20th centuries, city is of diverse ethnic background. Founded in 1626 by Dutch as "Nieuw Amsterdam". Fell to British in 1664. Was British base of operations during Revolution. Was U. S. capital, 1785-1790. Took commanding lead among U. S. cities with opening of Erie Canal to interior, 1825. In 1898, Brooklyn, Queens and Staten Island joined Manhattan and Bronx to form present metropolis. Columbia, New York and Fordham Universities. College of the City of New York. Barnard, Manhattan, Mount St. Vincent, St. Josephs, Hunter, Queens and Brooklyn Colleges.

Newport, R. I. Fashionable summer resort and historic seaport city. Has U. S. Naval Station, Naval College, Naval Hospital and Fort Adams. Contains beautiful colonial homes and fabulous estates of Gilded Age of 1890-1919. Tours Synagogue, Nat'l Historic Site and Old Stone Mill (possibly of Viking origin) are located here. Founded 1639. Was one of leading colonial cities until Revolution when British partly destroyed it. Grew as summer resort in 19th century. The "400" society leaders took over around 1880.

Rome, Italy. Roma (Ital.) Cap. Italy and Lazio (Latium) region, on Tiber R. "The Eternal City," with long history as a political, cultural, educational, religious and trade center; now a rail, air, financial and tourist center as well. Silk, jewelry, ceramics, auto bodies, rail cars, machinery, cement, motion pictures, glass, grains, motorcycles, drugs, distilling, wood and metal products, bicycles, chemicals, wines, leather, soap, brick, handicrafts. University, several American colleges, other educational institutions. Ancient tribal location, Latin and Sabine peoples were united under Etruscans in 8th century B. C. Republic formed c. 500 B. C. Advanced governmental methods and military strategy eventually won huge empire, centered on Mediterranean, influenced greatly by earlier Greek culture. City, beginning on famous Seven Hills, now covers large area, including cap. of Roman Catholicism—the Vatican (see Vatican City.). Peak of empire between death of Caesar, 44 B.C. and death of Augustus, 14 A.D. Burned under Nero's reign, 64 A.D. Barbaric invasions led to downfall beginning in 5th century. During most of Middle Ages, under control of Papacy and Holy Roman Empire. Renaissance cultural center of literature and art. Captured by French in 19th century, became cap. Italy in 1871. Many Roman ruins and remnants of Renaissance culture. Features include buildings centered around the Forum, Colosseum, Pantheon, Circus Maximus, temples on Capitoline and Palatine hills, catacombs. Also Quirinal Palace, villas of Colonna, Doria, Farnese, Borghese and other leading families, museums.

San Francisco, Cal. Major world seaport on magnificent harbor. Great commercial, banking and shipping metropolis. Noted cultural center and cosmopolitan city. Port handles tremendous variety of products from all over the Pacific world. City occupies a splendid site and is connected with northern and eastern parts of the metropolitan district by the beautiful Golden Gate Bridge and the long San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, respectively. Noted throughout the world for its cosmopolitan character, San Francisco can boast rightly of many colorful landmarks—Chinatown (largest in U.S.), Nob Hill, Telegraph Hill, the Civic Opera and Auditorium (birthplace of the U.N.), Fisherman's Wharf, Seal Rocks, etc. S. F. is an important manufacturing center producing—food products, canned goods, beverages, printed matter, clothing, ships, paint, chemicals, furniture, sugar refining, paper, metal products, machinery and electrical apparatus. Among many naval and military installations are the huge navy yard and Army Presidio. The city has had an extraordinary history and was founded in 1776 as the Misión San Francisco de Asís by Spanish friars. '49 Gold rush boomed S. F. into a large city. During this period, crime and vice flourished in the iniquitous Barbary Coast section (not closed until 1917). The "Vigilantes" were a notable group for law and order during this period. City prospered during 19th century with development of California's fabulous riches. The great earthquake and fire of 1906 destroyed a large part of the city but rebuilding was rapid. City was host to first United Nations meeting in 1945 and to Japanese peace treaty signatories in 1951. University of San Francisco. San Francisco College for Women. San Francisco State College.

Seattle, Wash. Major seaport. Commercial and industrial metropolis of Washington. Terminal for transcontinental railroads. Has important overseas trade with Orient and Alaska. Originally situated on hills (since removed) between Puget Sound and lake, city enjoys beautiful location. Fisheries center. Fort Lawton and Seattle Naval Air Station are here. Points of interest are the Lake Washington Canal and Pontoon Bridge, the original "Skid Road," the waterfront area, the Seattle Art Museum and the University of Washington campus. City is a major aircraft manufacturing, lumber milling and shipbuilding center. Aluminum, steel, canned fish, flour, clothing, furniture, printing, paper, chemicals, foundry products, metal products, machinery, electrical equipment. Founded 1851. Early shortage of marriagable females induced enterprising Yankee, Asa Mercer, to bring boatloads of respectable young women from New England. City grew rapidly with development of Alaska and Orient trade in late 19th century. Experienced aircraft and shipbuilding boom during World War II. University of Washington. Seattle University. Seattle Pacific College.

Washington, D. C. Capital of the United States. The nation's capital is unlike any other American city in that its sole industry is government. Because of its splendid public buildings, wide boulevards, its many parks and its lack of the usual smoke and grime of ordinary centers, it is one of the most beautiful cities in the world. The nucleus of Washington life is the triangular area stretching from the Capitol down the Mall to the White House and the Lincoln Memorial. In this area are located some of Washington's most prominent landmarks — Washington Monument, Jefferson Memorial, National Gallery of Art, Smithsonian Institute, Pan American Institute, Library of Congress, Supreme Court Building, Commerce, Justice, Agriculture and Post Office Department Buildings. Outside of this area, other notable sights are the diplomatic quarter north of the White House, the old Georgetown section, the Washington Cathedral, Ford's Theater, Gov't Printing Office and, in neighboring Arlington, Va., the Pentagon Building and Arlington National Cemetery. Washington has a cosmopolitan atmosphere because of its foreign diplomatic corps. The city is a tourist mecca for the nation. The city was created by Congressional action in 1790 and designed by Pierre L'Enfant. The city was occupied as the seat of government in 1800. In 1814 the new city was burned by the British. During the Civil War, it was a major Union Army base. The late 19th and 20th centuries saw great strides taken in the improvement and beautification of Washington. The 1930's and World War II were periods of rapid population growth. Georgetown University. George Washington University, Catholic University of America. American University, Howard University. Dunbarton College of Holy Cross. Trinity College.

TABLES OF
SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC DATA
OF THE WORLD

THE HEADLINE EVENTS of the last half-century have made the average person acutely curious of the vast world beyond his country's borders. This new national concern for the external world and its problems is one of the hopeful signs pointing to a better future for mankind. However, no matter how well-intentioned our concern for international relations may be, it is of no value unless it is grounded on an intelligent appreciation of the great diversity of social, economic and political forms extant throughout the globe.

On the following pages the editors have presented information on the world's nations, products, peoples and governments arranged in easily-found tabular form. This arrangement by tables makes comparison between political units a simpler task. These data, used with the maps in this atlas, complete the story of the nations of the world.
